Kajaani is a city in the north of Finland with about 38,000 inhabitants. It is situated on the river Kajaaninjoki, which flows north-west into the Oulujärvi. Although Kajaani is a smaller and quieter town, it offers a lot of variety. In addition to a few pubs and clubs, the Kainuu region offers many leisure activities such as husky safaris, snowmobile safaris or even skiing and snowboarding. Furthermore, the student organisation KAMO offers some inexpensive trips to big cities like Oulu and Helsinki.
