VISITOR'S GUIDE

WELCOME OF OUR PRESIDENT

Dear Visitor,

Welcome to University of Applied Sciences Landshut (Hochschule Landshut). We are a campus-based university on the outskirts of the beautiful city of Landshut, which is renowned far beyond its borders for the Church of St. Martin, Trausnitz Castle and the so-called "Landshut Wedding", a medieval festival held every four years.

Studies at Hochschule Landshut involve lectures and seminars in a familial atmosphere with excellent support. In addition to study opportunities, the campus is home to a wide range of clubs and organisations, which are open to everybody, as well as a plethora of sport and leisure activities, cultural events and student festivals.

Having an international orientation is more than just a slogan at Hochschule Landshut. The university maintains contacts to some 45 foreign universities both within Europe and beyond. Students from all over the world come to Landshut to complete one of our comprehensive ranges of bachelor's and master's degree courses. It is important for us to ensure that our visiting students and lecturers take advantage of our widespread language provision and leave Landshut with a good grasp of the German language.

We wish to make your stay in the city of Landshut and at the university as pleasant as possible. To this end we provide you with a number of different departments and points of contact. This „Visitor's Guide“ will give you an initial overview of the university's activities, but also of organisational things that you may require for daily life here.

I am delighted that you have chosen to come to Hochschule Landshut and hope your stay will be rich in experiences and that you will always remember it fondly.

Yours faithfully,

Prof. Dr. Karl Stoffel
President of Hochschule Landshut

ABOUT HOCHSCHULE LANDSHUT

GENERAL INFORMATION

Teaching and learning, research and development, as well as continuing education and lifelong learning have defined the work of the University of Applied Sciences Landshut since its founding in 1978.

The six faculties of Business Administration, Electrical and Industrial Engineering, Computer Science, Mechanical Engineering, Social Work and General Studies (from summer semester 2016) offer more than 35 degree programmes. Over 5,000 students benefit from the applied skills of our instructors, their individual supervision and our modern facilities. A first-class library with 24-hour access, a computer centre and well-equipped technical laboratories provide a perfect learning environment.

Hochschule Landshut places great value and importance on an international outlook. Incoming students can improve their German language skills at the university's language centre. There are numerous partnerships with universities around the world and international corporations.

The university works closely with business and social institutions and is actively involved in numerous research and development projects. These address issues in the social sciences, as well as specialist topics in engineering, computer or business sciences. The university's cooperation projects help to support the regional economy.

HISTORY

Landshut was founded in 1204 by Duke Ludwig I of Bavaria and remained the main seat of the House of Wittelsbach until 1255. Under the reign of the "Rich Dukes" Landshut witnessed a glorious period from 1393 to 1503, when it was the seat of government of the dukedom of Bavaria-Landshut.

Every four years the greatest European historical festival called "Landshuter Hochzeit" takes place, in which more than 2,000 citizens of Landshut celebrate the wedding of duke "Herzog Georg der Reiche" and the Polish king's daughter Hedwig in 1475. The next festival will take place in 2021.

The city of Landshut has been the seat of government of Lower Bavaria since 1839.

Trausnitz Castle was established as a seat of the Wittelsbacher family in 1204 by Duke Ludwig I of Bavaria. In the late Middle Ages, between 1255 and 1503, when Bavaria was divided into many separate dukedoms, Landshut became the central point of Lower Bavaria. As the seat of the Lower Bavarian dukes the castle gained considerably in significance. After the end of the Middle Ages, the castle enjoyed its heyday as the court of the Bavarian crown princes, particularly during the time of crown prince Wilhelm from 1568 to 1579. As its importance grew over the centuries the castle was extended and furnished with artworks and artefacts which can still bear witness today to all significant eras of the castle's history. The castle can be recognised by its impressive medieval fortifications, the high Wittelsbacher Tower, the castle chapel with its distinguished sculptural decoration and winged altar from the rich dukes.

Landshut Royal Wedding. Decorated horse-drawn carriages surrounded by princes, knights, maids and peasants, in colourful costumes and waving large flags fill the roads of Landshut's old town every four years. They are celebrating the wedding of the Bavarian duke "Herzog Georg der Reiche" to Hedwig, daughter of the Polish King – even though the actual ceremony took place over 500 years ago (1475). Before the eyes of over 700,000 spectators from all over the world, every actor has a defined role and must stick to precise guidelines. Maids, peasants and princes must not wear glasses, watches or bring mobile phones: Everything should look as authentic and realistic as if it really were the Middle Ages. Playing a part in the Landshut Wedding is often a matter of family tradition, carried out from childhood and over several generations.

The celebration has now been re-enacted for 114 years.

St. Martin's church. At 130.6 m the tower is the tallest brick tower in the world. Work on Landshut's parish and collegiate church was begun by the master builder Hans Krumenauer in 1385 and concluded in 1500 with the considerable involvement of Hans von Burghausen. With its unusual proportions, which are extended in the vertical, and its combination of the high and late Gothic styles, the church is one of the most significant Gothic buildings in Southern Germany.
